

SWEET CHARITY.

This Spirit Of The Master Should Be In His All.

GOD'S LOVE EXEMPLIFIED.

BRANDENBURG, KY., (Special).—In Dr. John Watson's "Life of the Master" one of the problems He had to face was the attitude of the Jews towards the Samaritans.

I have often thought as I read in Scripture of how Jesus must have felt the contempt cast on the Samaritans and the manner in which He treated the question is an example worthy of our following. His attitude was always one of kindness to that detested people, although he was preaching to Israel. He ever had a good word for them. In one of His most touching parables, a Jew passed a wounded traveler by, while a Samaritan saved his life. How Jesus showed that even the most unworthy in the eyes of the world can, by kindness and consideration, become ever a helper and philanthropist.

Again Jesus seemed to feel the contempt in which they were held and was always so ready to vindicate their character and give them credit for any good act. There was something so pathetic in the gentle, kind manner in which the Saviour by Divine simplicity approached those unfortunates. He showed them (and it holds as good now) that both nations were the children of one God, just as all orthodox denominations today are His children. Pity and assistance to those less favored was the attitude of our dear Lord to a poorer brother.

How we all lose sight of those facts at this age! How we neglect "the deeper unity of the human brotherhood and the Divine Fatherhood" to rail at those whose non-essentials are not as ours! How we try to "push over the precipice" him or her who happens to differ with us in belief. The spirit of Jesus, it seems to me, should help us to dissolve all barriers, make us forget the logical points, in unity of faith and spiritual fellowship with one Father, one Son, one Spirit. But with me ever lay aside doctrines.

Watson truly says, "The well is deep and buckets of human creeds and often much earth, but He is at hand who giveth unto every simple soul the water of Everlasting Life." Jesus, we know, was persecuted.

Let us review all history, ancient and modern, and we find this same spirit existing in the human breast. Today, this moment, it is apparent in political and religious circles among the builders of civilization! Our Saviour was indifferent to "rules." He despised "can't" and He would not come to terms with certain sects. And because He did not keep the Sabbath according to Jewish custom he was condemned and then again He was a friend to sinners. He never turned his back on the poor, the needy, but hunted up the most miserable and spoke words of cheer and comfort.

Among our Saviour's dearest friends was St. Mary Magdalene. Is a man or woman, according to the Master's rule, known by his or her friends? He consoled with sinners and outcasts to save and heal them. How afraid are Christians of contamination, of censure, of criticism! "Be like Him." Who, who, where, where, shall we find him? Jesus was slandered. Even His holy name did not escape, but He never condescended to deny a charge. "There are slanders which relate themselves!" Dr. Watson tells us.

Let every man and every woman who has felt the tongues of sheer slander, remember that slanders refute themselves. A stainless life, with a soul so high it cannot stoop to spleen or revenge, can risk much to assist in redeeming a fallen fellow mortal. A stainless life need have no fear of hearts that are as "sepulcher full of dead men's bones and all uncleanness." Chosen flowers have always existed and always will. Pure, exalted, high characters are just like those rare blossoms and cannot be trodden under foot.

Jesus counted none of God's human work as worthless. The woman who washed His feet was a "sadder" tragedy—"a woman ruined, a woman ruined" but Christ saw as well a "soul made in a Divine image" and intended for high aims. He went to work to extend the hand of sympathy and He never rested till she was made whole. A sweet, charitable, benevolent disposition like the Redeemer had like the rays of sun on a gray rock after a shower; it softens the face. How many of us imitate Him? How many can we number that are like Him when it comes to true Christian charity towards the unfortunate of earth?

A Delightful Evening Spent By The Knights Of Pythias And Their Friends, May 30th.

FRIENDSHIP, CHARITY AND BENEVOLENCE.

Nothing is more indicative of a town's activity than the prosperity of its religious and social organizations. Cloverport boasts of three flourishing secret orders, none of which are more prosperous than the Knights of Pythias. This body of charity and chivalry holds away in the hall over Mr. Fisher's drugstore, where its members meet every Monday night and at other stated intervals to transact business and entertain their friends.

Wednesday night, May 30th, was the occasion of one of their open meetings to which the families and friends of the Knights were bidden, and right royally were they entertained. These hosts, whose lives show forth the results of their lodge's teachings, should add the word, hospitality, to their list of motto words—friendship, charity and benevolence.

After a short talk by Rev. T. V. Joiner on the origin, object and results of this social order, the ladies, children and visiting Knights were served with delicious refreshments, consisting of ices, cake and strawberries, prefaced by the invocation of God's blessing by Rev. W. B. Rutledge. The long and beautifully ornamented table stretched from one end of the hall to the other and the Knights, who served their guests daintily but abundantly, won the praise of all present for the perfect success of the entertainment.

When the Knights had in turn been waited upon by some of the fairer sex, the party was delightfully entertained with recitations by Miss Jessie Schull. Miss Schull was at her best and gained new laurels to add to her already long list of triumphs won while a resident here. She was encored again and again to which she responded gracefully and pleasingly.

After the singing in concert of Old Kentucky Home, the hosts and guests dispersed to their homes rejoicing in the good cheer, as well as the kind deeds, of this hospitable and benevolent fraternity.

A Card of Thanks.

I wish to say that I feel under lasting obligations for what Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has done for our family. We have used it in so many cases of coughs, lung troubles and whooping coughs, and it has always given the most perfect satisfaction, we feel greatly indebted to the manufacturers of this remedy and wish them to please accept our hearty thanks.—Respectfully, Mrs. S. Dory, Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by A. R. Fisher, Cloverport, R. A. Shellman, Stephensport.

Speaker Reed's Retort.

Growing tired of his chair one afternoon, Speaker Reed surrendered it to another member and sat down beside a western Democrat.

"My, what a large hand you have!" remarked Mr. Reed, looking intently at the enormous paw of his Democratic friend, who was writing a letter.

"Yes, sir," said the member, "and I am proud of it. I worked on a farm for so many years that my hands grew large, as you see them."

The speaker held up his small and shapely right hand, smooth and white as a woman's, and said:

"Well, I thank the Lord I never worked on a farm."

The member replied, "You are probably going to run for the presidency some time, Mr. Reed, and if you do I'll placard that statement all over the country. And what could you do about it?"

The big fellow mused awhile and said:

"Nothing—except to brand you as an infernal liar!"—Success.

A Frank Confession.

An old Ulster woman who had made money by selling whisky in a village on fair and market days was visited when she lay dying by a minister, to whom she spoke about her temporal as well as her spiritual affairs.

"And so, Molly," said the minister, "you tell me you are worth all that money?"

"Indeed, minister, I am," replied Molly. "And you tell me," continued the minister seriously, "that you made it by filling the noggin?"

"Na, na, minister," exclaimed the dying woman; "I made most of it by not filling the noggin!"

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED.

Mr. Gardner Hawkin's Birthday
Celebrated At The Home Of His Daughter, Mrs.
L. R. Attkisson.

NINE GRAND CHILDREN WERE PRESENT.

One of the most enjoyable events of the season was the dinner given Mr. Gardner Hawkins by his daughter, Mrs. L. R. Attkisson, on the fifteenth of the present month, it being the 74th anniversary of his birthday. The party consisted of his nine grand-children. The dinner was made up of all that goes to make a meal tempting; good things enough to tickle the palate of a Vanderbilt. The table was artistically arranged and covered were laid for ten. Two lovely bouquets of flowers were placed at either end of the long table. In the center was placed the large birthday cake looking like a little mountain of snow, around the base of which were the words "Grandfather's Birthday" composed of evergreens, on a white background. At the plate of each of the little ones was a tiny snow white cake, encircled by a green wreath, the cakes bearing the initial of each child. Then there were candies, nuts, fruits, and lemonade.

When dinner was announced, the Grandfather led the way, followed by a pretty set of little ones as is often seen. Seated at one end of the table was the Grandfather, next to him on his right and left were his two oldest grand children, Lila Bille Hawkins and Hewitt Dix. Next came Pauline Hawkins and Cecil Dix, then Harold Hawkins and Nancy Lee Hawkins and Gardner Hawkins Jr. and Marion Dix. At the other end of the table seated in his high chair, like one having authority, was Sherman Hawkins the ten months old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt Hawkins.

It was a happy occasion and only one thing marred the perfect enjoyment, that being the absence of one of the grand children, Jamie Owen Hawkins, who was off at school. Each little one brought his dear grandfather a present in token of their great love for him; among the many little presents, was five dollars in gold from one of the little boys.

Mrs. Attkisson was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Hewitt Hawkins, in serving. It was a day of great pleasure and will never be forgotten. I think it is so nice for these little ones in our lives to be remembered and made a happy spot to which memory can turn with pleasant thoughts.

How often memory will turn to the dear mother who has long been folded in her last sleep and how she always remembered our birthdays. The cake might not have been better than other cakes, but the fact that it was our birthday cake gave it a flavor surpassing all others. Years may pass and brothers and sisters may be scattered and far apart, but the birthday will always bring a sweet remembrance and we feel that, though separated, the old time custom still holds sway. We should try to mark the birthdays of our parents and of our children. It will leave a green spot in our memories that is refreshing as an oasis in a desert. I hope our aged friend may live to enjoy many more such days as was this.

Mrs. R. B. L. Stephensport, Ky.

The Health Problem

Is much simpler than is sometimes supposed. Health depends chiefly upon perfect digestion and pure blood, and the problem is solved very readily by Hood's Sarsaparilla. You may keep well by taking it promptly for any stomach or blood disorder. Its cures of scrofula, salt rheum, catarrh, dyspepsia, rheumatism, and other diseases are numbered by the thousands.

The favorite family cathartic is Hood's Pills.

CHURCH DEDICATION.

The Cumberland Presbyterian Church Dedicated At Irvington, Sunday.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES.

A Large Crowd Gathered To Do
Honor To Such A Notable Event.

As was previously mentioned in the News the dedication of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, at Irvington, occurred Sunday.

The day could not have been a more ideal one, as the atmospheric and climatic conditions seemed to have held itself in readiness for this memorable occasion. Husbands, mothers and children, sweethearts and beaux were there in profusion. People came from all the adjacent towns, numbering in all 2000. It is not often the case, however it is true of this church, that it is free of all indebtedness.

The organization has been of a short period and those who were interested, went to work with the vim and determination of having a church to worship in of their own, and it wasn't but a short while until the greater part of the cost was raised. The approximate cost of the church is said to be $2000.

Mr. J. K. Bramlet, Irvington's foremost contractor, did the work and it must be acknowledged that it is a fine piece of mechanism. In dimensions it is 32 x 60.

A more beautiful site could not have been selected, its location is in what is known as the "Woodland" portion of Irvington, being constructed on a mound slightly elevated with a pretty and picturesque view of the entire town.

The writer was told that it is through the Dowell's that this magnificent structure owes its existence, but afterwards many others came to their assistance and with all hands together never allowed the movement to get cold.

Dr. W. S. Danley, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church at Owensboro, delivered the dedication sermon.

Many were unable to hear his discourse as the church was crowded early in the morning to its fullest capacity.

One who did hear him said: "I have heard many discourses at previous occasions of this character, but never yet have I had the pleasure of listening to such an able, logical or more truthful one." Some of the ladies were overheard to say, "That's my kind of a sermon and I do wish it could have been arranged so every person might have had the opportunity of hearing it."

Mrs. Lou Moreman and Miss Krall sang a duet entitled "Gather the Fairest Rose Bud" the rendition of it was perfect and both were evidently at their best. They are possessed of strong cultivated voices and the good people of Irvington should feel proud of having two persons in their midst endowed with such musical talent.

At one o'clock the spreading of tablecloths began and it was noticeable to see the broad smiles upon the countenances of a few. The lunch was elegant and all who did not satisfy their appetite, should have given the high "signal."

In the afternoon Rev. Danley delivered a beautiful sermon of which all spoke in high praise. After this the congregation was dismissed. Then those who attended, began to depart for their respective homes.

J. C. MARTIN

A Former Citizen Of This Town
Succumbs To Death At Uniontown.

HIS ILLNESS WAS OF BRIEF DURATION.

Uniontown Telegram.—Mr. John Carroll Martin, one of Uniontown's oldest and best known citizens died at his apartments in this city Monday evening at 9:30 o'clock, after a brief illness. The deceased was in the 79th year of his age and has been closely associated with the business interest of Uniontown since first locating here in the year of 1876. Although quite an old man, he was remarkably well preserved and although he has been troubled with asthma for a number of years, he was thought to be in comparatively good health. Last week he was suddenly stricken with congestion of the stomach and owing to his age he succumbed to the attack, passing away Monday evening as stated. His remains were taken to Hawesville Tuesday morning for burial, accompanied by his two children, Charles Martin, of Cloverport and Mrs. Victoria Hawkins, of Birmingham, Ala. Sterling, another son, who lives in the west, did not attend the burial.

John C. Martin was born in Stubenville, Ohio, on the 21st day of August, 1821. After gaining an excellent education at Augusta College in Bracken county, Kentucky, he went to Cincinnati where he engaged in business. He remained in Cincinnati till 1839 when he fitted up a trading boat and started down the Ohio, and on down the Mississippi into the Gulf. He continued in the store boating business until 1847. He then settled in Cloverport, Ky., and there engaged in merchandising until 1860. He moved to Hawesville in 1862 and there remained until 1874, when he went to Newburg, Ind., and remained there two years. In 1876 he came to Uniontown where he has since resided, a respected citizen. The deceased has been connected in a business way with many local enterprises. At the time of his death he was acting as a pension agent, for a number of years he has done quite a large amount of business in this line. The deceased is survived by a widow and three children. The children are all grown and reside elsewhere.

Capt. Martin as he was familiarly known in Uniontown, will be missed by his many friends here, and the memory of one who has so long been associated with this community will live on mid the scenes of his last days.

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers, never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Bilelessness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration, Heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by—A. R. FISHER.

A Chilly Pair Drives*Over The Country.

Mr. C. D. Snow, of Finley, Ohio, was in town last week representing a paint establishment of that city. He took in Patesville, Pelville and Whitesville and was driven by Cloverport's popular young liverman, Willie Hale. Every one knows Willie's great admiration for the feminine sex and Mr. Snow returned delighted with his trip. However if you look at it properly, this combination, even during the summer months, makes a chilly couple.
